Fine Art For The Work Environment.

Overview - Art In The Workplace

Office and workplace aesthetics have always played a prominent role and more so today than ever before. Hanging artwork in the workplace is not only more popular than ever, it also makes a difference. It does so by positively impacting productivity, employee well-being, defining company culture and making a strong impression on clients. That’s just scratching the surface. Cartmell has been providing artwork for small businesses, Fortune 500 companies and many businesses of all types and sizes for decades.

Art In The Workplace - Client Testimonials

Insurance Company

Client Testimonial:
"When we moved into our new building, we wanted to have some original artwork on our walls. With two large walls in our lobby, we hoped for something perfect to make a good first impression to visitors. We immediately thought of Greg Cartmell. Greg had the perfect paintings for us. We are proud to have two large and impressive paintings hanging in our lobby. The many favorable comments we receive from our customers validates that we made the right decision in choosing Greg Cartmell." Diane Wilson, - Insurance Co.

Hospital

Overview:
A hospital in the Southern part of the United States reached out to Greg and commissioned him to create artwork for one the corporate boardrooms. This is where many physicians and other executives meet to discuss various subject matters. He was tasked with the job of creating portraits of doctors and executives on the board. The executive portraits now hang in various locations of the hospital. Anderson, - Hospital

Military

Client Testimonial:
"I've collected several of Greg Cartmell's painting over the years, but this one is my favorite. I had the distinct pleasure of taking oil painting lessons from this master and during that time, I was able to see many creations he created over a five year period. His ability to capture the essence of what Mississippi means to me is best represented by this piece."
Colonel Kris Gianakos, Retired - United States Air Force

Why Your Office Needs Artwork

1. Better Atmosphere - Introducing art in the workplace can create a more positive environment and better working atmosphere.

2. Impress Clients - First impressions mean a lot today. Hanging fine art can speak volumes when clients / customers enter your office. This exhibits professionalism, value, and a sense of serenity.

3. Corporate Profile - Art can help boost your corporate profile. Artwork can help you attract new employees, client prospects and other professionals.

4. Identity Reflection - The art that you hang speaks volumes. It can directly reflect on the company. Exhibiting artwork of your liking allows you to showcase the company's identity and values.

5. Creative Investment - Displaying art is not only an investment and appreciating asset, it's a great way to invite or inspire those around you to engage in the creative thinking process.

The Process

The process of acquiring artwork for your office is simple and seamless. There are two offers that Cartmell Gallery currently offers. We offer already produced and ready-to-hang artwork at a bulk purchase rate or fully commissioned pieces based on specific client requirements provided (subject, size, type, colors etc).

1. Discovery - Research is the focal point of this phase. Getting a definitive feel of what the deliverables are along with your specific requests/requirements is an important part of the process. Through creative collaboration between client and artist, identifying desired outcomes and visions are accomplished.

2. Designing - The artist goes to work, focusing on the core factors determined in the discovery stage. It all starts with very loose concepts and sketching. Then come the details, which can take many hours until each project comes to fruition based on the established desires set forth by the client.

3. Delivery - The finished pieces of artwork are professionally packaged, delivered and even hung depending on the client location. This is when the idea becomes reality and your workspace transforms into a creative "standard setting" environment.
